1. Confidentiality

Unless otherwise agreed in writing, this document and any attachments (including sample COA formats, typical values, charts and technical notes) are provided for evaluation and technical communication purposes only. The recipient shall take reasonable measures to prevent unauthorized disclosure, copying or redistribution.

- The recipient shall not use the materials for public marketing or publication unrelated to evaluation purposes.
- If disclosure to third parties (e.g., regulatory submission) is required, both parties should confirm the disclosure scope and document version in writing.
- This confidentiality statement does not apply to information that is publicly available or can be proven to have been lawfully obtained prior to receipt.

2. Typical Values and Sample Files

- Typical values are for reference and do not represent final release data for any specific batch.
- Sample/watermarked COA files demonstrate common test dimensions and data formats and may not include all method details or customer-specific test items.
- For batch-specific results and method/condition details, please request a Full COA (provided under mutually agreed terms).

3. Disclaimer and Responsibility Boundary

- We provide materials and technical/documentation support. We do not warrant or guarantee any clinical claims, indications, labeling or regulatory approvals for customer finished products.
- Customers must evaluate suitability under their own formulations, processing, sterilization, packaging/storage conditions and intended use.
- To the extent permitted by applicable law, we are not liable for losses arising from misuse, uncontrolled processing conditions, or applications beyond the mutually agreed scope.

4. Intellectual Property

- “Kannry Bio” and related marks are company assets and shall not be used in a misleading manner without permission.
- Intellectual property generated during collaboration shall be handled under separate written agreements.
